Curtin Library's enhanced Information Literacy Program is now fully available online and includes LibGuides and Interactive Tutorials. The program is aligned to Curtin graduate attributes and is aimed at helping students become independent, lifelong information seekers.

Access to the entire program and information on how to import customised programs for your unit is available under the Library tab in Blackboard Learning Management System.

What Are LibGuides?
LibGuides are a collection of multidisciplinary, subject or school based, and unit specific guides designed to connect students to information and resources. LibGuides offer a range of learning tools that allow students to develop their research and study skills.

Customised guides can be created for specific assignments or for units with large numbers of students (including offshore students) upon request.
Request a guide
Guides can be developed according to your teaching needs. Simply contact your Faculty Librarian.

What Are iTutorials?
iTutorials are online interactive tutorials that cover core information skills for students.

The tutorials support self-directed learning with step-by-step instructions and quiz questions. Library staff will be happy to work with you to explore assessment options based on the tutorials.

The tutorials are:
- Understanding a reading list
- Finding items on a reading list
- Analysing your assignment topic
- Finding items on your assignment topic
- Searching databases on your assignment topic
- Evaluating resources and
- Understanding referencing.

Embed library resources into Blackboard
Guides, tutorials and other e-resources can be embedded directly into your Blackboard unit. You can import a complete package or select and embed individual learning objects in your Blackboard unit.

Go to the Library tab in Blackboard to access comprehensive step-by-step instruction on how to do this.
The Library tab also contains important information about:

- adding items to e-Reserve
- video streaming
- copyright
- licence compliance and
- plagiarism.

Librarians aligned to each Faculty can work with academic staff to choose the most appropriate activity to integrate information literacy skills into units. For more information please contact your Faculty Librarian.
